Disclosures and Signature
In connection with such abandonment, I represent and warrant that:
1. I have independently initiated this request for Robinhood to remove the specified security from my account. This decision was made without any recommendation or encouragement from Robinhood. 2. I have sought and relied upon advice from my own tax professional in making this decision. Robinhood has not offered or provided any tax advice related to this transaction. I understand and accept that Robinhood is not responsible for any actions or determinations made by foreign, U.S. federal, state, or local tax authorities concerning this request. 3. I have determined, on my own, that the security is worthless. This determination was not based on any guidance or input from Robinhood. 4. I understand and acknowledge that I have not and will not receive compensation, payment, or benefit in exchange for the abandonment of the Security, and this will not create a 1099 reportable event (or in the case of a retirement account, this will not create a 1099-R reportable event.) 5. I recognize that this action is final and cannot be reversed. Should the security regain value at any point in the future, Robinhood will not restore the security or provide any equivalent compensation. I agree not to pursue recovery of any such value from Robinhood. Additionally, I will not repurchase an identical security from Robinhood following this abandonment. 6. I confirm that the information I have provided is accurate and complete, and I understand that Robinhood is relying on these representations. I agree to indemnify and hold Robinhood harmless from any liabilities, penalties, losses, costs, or expenses that may result from this abandonment, including any violations of IRS rules or other applicable regulations
